Vol. 50, No. 54

MEN AND WAR is the basic theme for the R.C. Sherriff play, Journey's End. The play will be presented in Joe E. Brown Theatre today through Saturday and stars Lee Drew and Clarence Bahs. Photo by John Blinn.

'Journey's End' To Open Tonight

The University Theater production of "Journey's End," by R. C. Sherriff, will open at 8:15 p.m. tonight in the Joe E. Brown Theater.

Night performances will run

Pressure Felt In NY Strike

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said that the N.Y. transit strike may be settled within the next couple of days.

Meany said he offered to do anything he could to help settle the strike. But he said he has not been asked to do anything.

Meany said his offer was relayed directly to Mike Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union. Meany said he has had no direct communication with Quill or other top union officials during the transit strike.

The striking Transport Workers Union still held to its swift rejection of Mayor John Lindsay's three alternatives for dealing with the contract deadlock: terms by a mediation panel, or a return to work pending fact-finding, or perhaps binding arbitration.

till Friday with a 2:30 p.m. performance scheduled Sunday.

"Journey's End," a play concerning World War I, presents a small group of soldiers in the British trenches before St. Quentin in March of 1918, waiting for an expected German offensive.

Individual portraits emerge from the men caught in the horrors of the war. Captain Stanhope, whose nerves are shattered from three year's exposure to the agony of trench warfare, is played by B. Lee Drew.

Lieutenant Osborne, ex-schoolmaster is played by John Myers and Lt. Raleigh, is portrayed by John Beuschlein.

Lt. Hibbert, played by Clarence Bahs desperately seeks to escape his own fear while Lt. Trotter portrayed by David Farmer, has managed to assume to measure of equanimity. The strain and tension build until the end of the play, when the attack begins.

Reserved seats may be obtained at the University Theater box office for the admission price of $1 for adults and 25¢ for high school students.

New IFC Rule Ups Grade Standards

By BRUCE WARD
Staff Writer

Additions and changes to the standing rush rules were passed at a meeting of the Interfraternity Council Monday.

The first change discussed held that a potential rushee must have a 2.0 grade average for the previous semester and at least a 2.0 accumulative average.

Previously the ruling stated that a rushee had to have a 2.0 the previous semester or a 2.0 accumulative average, but not both.

Jon B. Buzogany, administrative vice president of IFC and chairman of the rush policies committee, refuted the argument that such a change would deny fraternities potential members who might develop into campus leaders.

"As far as losing potential campus leaders, a person has to have a minimum grade point average of 2.5 to run for any office on this campus and we are not losing anyone," Buzogany said.

Other members of the Council disagree with the change because they felt it was "an unjust judgment." They pointed to men who have difficulty adjusting and get poor grades their first semester and who then improve their grades but not enough for a 2.0 accumulative average.

In answer, Council member Thomas L. Braun said, "We must legislate for the whole rather than for the exception."

It was then approved unanimously that the ruling go into effect in the fall of the 1966-67 school year instead of the spring semester of this year.

The amendment was passed because about 90 percent of the rushees in the spring will be freshman, and will have only one semester's grades as their accumulative grade point average as well as their previous semester's grades. It was pointed out that the proposed change would not affect them.

Ray A. Mundy, IFC parliamentarian, said the amendment "altered the spirit of the proposed change to the rush rules and thereby made it a new motion."

According to the IFC by-laws a proposed change in the standing rush rules must be read and proposed at one meeting and then voted on at the next. A special meeting was then called for Monday night to vote on the changes.

It was suggested that since the by-laws did not require any specific length of time to elapse between meetings, it would be possible for the president to ask for adjournment of the first meeting and immediately open a new one.

This was done, and the Council moved immediately to old business. Question was called on the first change to the standing rush rules. The change passed with 12 for and 3 against.

The second change states that students completing 12 credit hours of summer school with at least a 2.0 average and thus having at least a 2.0 accumulative average shall be eligible for rush. Freshmen completing only summer school shall be ineligible. The change passed with 12 for, one against, and two abstaining.

300 Grads To Hear Miami U. Provost

Dr. Charles Ray Wilson, provost of Miami University, will deliver the commencement address and receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree at the University's winter commencement Saturday, Jan. 29.

President William T. Jerome III will award degrees to approximately 300 graduates at ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m. in the ballroom.

Dr. Wilson, a 1962 graduate of Miami, has been provost since 1961. Prior to that he was on the faculty of Colgate University for 26 years. He was Miami's acting president from July 1, 1964, through June 30, 1965, while continuing to carry out the duties of provost.

A former Cincinnati, Dr. Wilson holds a master's degree from the University of Cincinnati and a doctorate from the University of Chicago. He also holds an honorary doctor of law degree from Miami, which he received in 1950.

Dr. Wilson has authored "The American Idea" and co-authored essays in "American Historiography." He is a member of the American Historical Association, American Association of University Professors, Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Phi Kappa, and Pi Delta Epsilon.

Active politically, Dr. Wilson was a candidate for Congress from New York in 1946 and 1954. He served as a delegate to the 1948 Democratic National Convention and is a member of the National Committee for a Representative Congress.

Currently Dr. Wilson is serving as adviser to Ohio's Committee on Higher Education and Council on Educational Television. He also serves the Midwest Program for Airborne Television Instruction in an advisory capacity.

Dr. Charles R. Wilson

Dr. Wilson is on the Executive Committee of the Association of Naval ROTC Colleges and the advisory boards of both the Cincinnati and Dayton Councils of World Affairs.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilson are the parents of two Miami graduates. They have one grandchild.

Hanoi Stays Quiet On U.S. Contact

WASHINGTON (AP)-- There has been no word of any reply from Communist North Viet Nam to a direct U.S. diplomatic contact with the Hanoi regime, first disclosed Monday by the White House.

A member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Democrat Cornelius Gallagher of New Jersey, revealed today that the communication took place soon after the Christmas eve suspension of U.S. bombing raids on North Viet Nam. Details still remain secret.

Gallagher spoke with newsmen after the Foreign Affairs Committee was briefed by Undersecretary of State George Ball. Communist North Viet Nam has again accused the U.S. of planning to escalate the Viet Nam war under the cover of a peace offensive. The accusation was contained in a statement by North Viet Nam's foreign ministry broadcast by radio Hanoi.

There is speculation in Saigon that roving Ambassador Averell Harriman may be carrying new instructions for U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Harriman arrived in Saigon yesterday.

WEATHER

The weather for today is: increasing cloudiness and warmer with rain by late afternoon. High 36-40. Cloudy and warmer with rain tonight.

Baker Case Deepens

By Richard L. Strout
Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

It is not really Bobby Baker who is under indictment in a federal court in Washington today, many observers feel here, but the United States Senate.

Robert G. Baker, former page boy and secretary to the Senate Democrats, has been indicted by a federal grand jury on nine counts charging him with receiving $137,000 under false pretenses, and evading taxes on the money.

Mr. Baker, it is pointed out here, came to the Senate at 14, breathed its atmosphere, watched its members, and was conversant with its ethical standards.

Furthermore, when the curious facts appeared of his sudden leap to affluence on a $19,600 a year income, the Democratic majority committee of the Senate that investigated him decided that he had not committed a crime, although he was guilty of "gross improprieties."

There was hardly a reporter who followed the hearings who did not believe that the majority was reluctant to push the inquiry or, as the Republican minority charged, carried through a whitewash.

The Senate's good name is intertwined with its ex-official at another point. After the committee hearing, the Senate had to decide what corrective action to take to prevent a recurrence. All the Senate did was to adopt a resolution to set up a joint committee of ethics. It rejected a proposal by the rules committee for financial disclosure and broader reform.

For years, observers here have noted the stern code of ethics which Congress applies to presidential nominees to executive positions. A series of Secretaries of Defense, for example, have been forced to divest themselves of financial interests in the business which they leave to come to Washington.

But Congress applies one rule to others and another to itself. A substantial minority of congressman own stock in lucrative radio and TV stations in an industry which they regulate; they carry on law firms whose clients are campaign contributors; and in other ways, stand to profit by dual interests.

The late Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D) of Oklahoma, an oil millionaire and a kind of uncrowned king of the Senate, publicly proclaimed this duality. He saw no harm in it, and he was a chief patron of young Mr. Baker.

Generations of reformers have urged Congress to put its house in order. Historians declare there has been a slow, steady improvement in ethics since the day when Daniel Webster used to dun the Bank of the United States for his customary retainers.

Rising costs of campaigning make the matter particularly acute now, it is charged. Present laws affecting campaign contributions are little more than make-believe, students assert. Besides this, Congress should apply the same code of ethics to itself that it applies to those whom it investigates.

Republicans hope to make political capital out of the Baker case. The forthcoming trial may involve the names of more senators, it is hinted.

More than anyone else, curt, bulldogmannered Sen John J. Williams (R) of Delaware insisted on pushing the Baker case when other senators wanted to hush it up.

Indictments do not tell the circumstances. A possible line of defense would be that Mr. Baker was collecting campaign funds.

Washington thinks that it hasn't heard the last of the Bobby Baker case, nor the Senate either.

"I Have Mixed Feelings About This Turn Of Events"

Politicians Begin Politicking

By GRACE PHENEGER
Columnist

The new year is always ushered in by politicians filing for whatever positions the year's elections may hold. Included in this year's grab bag is the Ohio gubernatorial election. The Republicans will nominate Gov. Rhodes for another term.

The Democrats will have to do some selecting. Among the possibilities are Harry McIlwain, Frank King, former Gov. Mike DiSalle and Frazer Reams. Two years ago, none of these were mentioned by the political speculators. All were talking Mayor Ralph Locher of Cleveland.

Of the current possibilities, King has tentatively announced that he is not a candidate; but he could change his mind. Reams has announced that he would accept the nomination if drafted. What he really wants is the Lieutenant Governor's post.

From this observer's standpoint, DiSalle might as well forget it. He lost too many valuable friends while he was still in office to be a really serious contender.

This leaves McIlwain the leader at the moment. He is currently State Representative from Hamilton County, where he has been the top Democratic vote-getter. He also was voted Outstanding Freshman Legislator in his first term.

McIlwain's chief legislative projects have been lowering the voting age to 18 and seeking re-organization of the mental health program.

At this time, it appears that it will be Rhodes vs. McIlwain in November. McIlwain's probable choice for Lt. Governor is Carl Stokes, who was narrowly defeated last November for the mayorship of Cleveland.

The November election will have significant consequences for state-supported higher education in Ohio. As things stand now, the Board of Regents has members who are appointed for an indefinite term.

The members of the boards of trustees of the various state schools are appointed for specified terms; but there will be some important expiration dates during the next gubernatorial term.

The question at issue concerning mental health will be the adequacy of the present program which is, comparatively, below the national average in facilities and budget.

Other issues at stake are the future of the proposed bridge across Lake Erie, the proposed canal between Lake Erie and the Ohio River, and the proposed industrial park system.

Other significant questions which will be raised will be primary and secondary school facilities and budgets, the state debt, taxes, and general legislative programs.

The campaign will begin the first week in February, immediately following the filing of declarations of candidacy.

Refutes Parnell

To the editor:

In response to Dr. Paul Parnell's second letter to the B-G News, I would again like to make a few observations and comments, and in so doing help further to define and clarify this problem of student-faculty relations.

One observation is in regard to the teaching experience as being a two-way operation between the students and the faculty. This should be a major goal of the University.

If this is not the case, we should ask ourselves why the student is not active instead of stating that he never participates and leaving it at that.

If it is the students fault, we should look for the reasons that he acts this way instead of assuming that he is looking for "as much comfort and as little effort as possible." Let us find out why it is this way and do something about it. Can the students and the faculty do something to solve this?

Another comment on Dr. Parnell's letter concerning his contention that the students are too interested in "relaxing academic discipline and increasing academic privilege." Well, if we are to be considered a part of this University, we must be allowed to be involved in all of its facets.

Anyway what is the "real purpose of the university?" Should we as students be allowed to help form this purpose?

As far as class cuts are concerned, the student who is not interested will perform at the same level whether he comes to class and sleeps or cuts the class. You cannot force a student to learn since you have required him to be in class every day.

On the other hand, however, there may be some students who could better satisfy their academic pursuits by a free choice of how they spend their time.

Some very important learning goes on in the library and in various outside activities. The reasons that a student cuts a class are more important than the fact that he cuts it. We must again find out "Why?" and then begin looking for an answer.

Playboy Poll Shows Students Would Vote Republican In '68

Playboy Magazine does more than just sport pictures of international beauties, as evidenced by the most recent Playboy College Opinion Survey showing that 55 per cent of the students polled would vote for a Republican candidate for the Presidency in 1968.

The survey covering 200 campuses, is based on responses from a representative sample of approximately 1,000 students of all classes, ages, and backgrounds from all over the country. A permanent panel of 200 faculty members was also polled.

Despite the students majority for a Republican candidate in the 1968 Presidential Election, 91 per cent of the students agree that a Democratic candidate will win the election.

Eighty-six per cent concede the election to Mr. Johnson while five per cent prefer Sen Robert Kennedy of New York.

The new photo copy machine in the reference room of the Library is duplicating more copies in a single week than other machines did in a single month, Dr. A. Robert Rogers said yesterday.

Although the Triple M-209 is performing satisfactorily, Dr. Rogers said he hopes to obtain a new machine to be used for a trial period beginning in February or March.

Among the faculty members polled, 95 per cent believe that the Democratic party will again win and only one per cent of these believe it will be someone other than Johnson.

Student Does Project Under Science Grant

Dale L. Jensyold, a science major, is engaged in a special research project this semester under the Undergraduate Science Research Program.

The subject of his study is "Quantitative Assay of Induced Feeding Reflex on the Hydroid Hydractinia Echinata."

This program is sponsored by the Ohio Academy of Science under a grant from the National Science Foundation. College upperclassmen conduct the research and submit papers reporting their findings.

Papers approved by faculty advisers and selected by the OAS program chairmen will be presented by the authors at the annual meeting of the Ohio Academy at Ohio University next April. They will also be considered for publication in the Ohio Journal of Science.

Purpose of this program is to encourage student research and provide experience in communicating results to others. College juniors and seniors may still register in the program through the Ohio Academy of Science, #505 King Avenue, Columbus.

There also regional connotations to the survey. Analysis of returns regionally show that among students who chose the Democratic Party, eastern colleges gave their vote to Johnson by 39 per cent, while in the South the President pulled only 18 per cent.

The survey also asked, "Since American males are eligible for the draft at the age of 18 and are serving their country, should the legal voting age be lowered to 18 in all states?"

Only 55 per cent of both students and faculty agreed that this should become a law. The principle reason offered by the survey's respondents against the lowering of the voting age was that intellectual maturity is more important than physical maturity.

Hootenany Friday In Union Ballroom

An all-campus hootenany, sponsored by the Special Events Committee of Rodgers Quadrangle and the University Activities Organization, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Grand Ballroom.

A panel will judge singing groups from fraternities, sororities and residence halls, and present awards.

There will be a dance after the hootenany, with Tom Shelley as disc jockey.

Admission is free, and casual dress can be worn as everyone will sit on the floor.

Research Study Evaluates Student Views Of Campus

A research study designed to obtain a more objective picture of student's image of the University is being conducted under the joint sponsorship of the Counseling Center and the Office of the Dean of Students.

"With such a study as this, we can add objective evidence to the subjective beliefs we already have," Dr. Frank C. Arnold, director of the Counseling Center, said yesterday.

Chosen at random from the four undergraduate classes, 2,000 students have been asked

Beta Alpha Psi Holds Induction

Twelve students were initiated into Beta Alpha Psi, accounting honorary fraternity, at its Jan. 9 meeting.

Phys Ed Women To Sponsor Show

The Women's Intramural Association Talent Show will be held at 7 p.m. Friday in the north gymnasium of the Women's Bldg.

Delta Psi Kappa, honorary society for women majoring in health and physical education, and the Pem Club are sponsoring the Talent Show to help women in the H.P.E. department get better acquainted.

to respond anonymously to the College Characteristics Index, a standardized inventory developed for the purpose of assessing campus climate.

"Such a measure could have considerable influence in future actions within the University if enough of our students are willing to tell us what they think," Dr. Arnold said.

Presently about half the students asked to participate have done so. "While results based on this number could be useful," Dr. Arnold said, "any high degree of certainty that a representative picture has been obtained would require a much larger group."

"It is hoped that the added ease for the student to respond within his or her living unit will increase greatly the number of participants," Dr. Arnold said.

"We want to know what students think and hope they will give us this chance."

Several kinds of questions are being asked, for example:

"Do students at Bowling Green look on their school as a place which strongly emphasizes intellectual achievement or a school emphasizing the development of vocational skills and attitudes?"

"Is Bowling Green seen as a school where high intellectual achievement is stressed and encouraged as opposed to a school where one is encouraged to "get by" and spend more time on other kinds of pursuits?"

Scoring of the response sheets will be done through National Computer Systems as soon as the polling is completed. Analysis of the data will then be carried out and recorded.

Red Cross Needs Workers For Armed Forces Service

Men and women with college backgrounds are being sought by the American Red Cross for career jobs in connection with service to the armed forces, Carleton Rae, manager of the Greater Toledo Red Cross Chapter, announced yesterday.

"Workers are needed to help in providing welfare and recreation services to American servicemen both at home and overseas," Mr. Rae said.

Men are needed to serve as assistant field director on military installations, helping servicemen and their families with counseling, emergency communications, financial assistance and furnishing information in obtaining government benefits.

They also would coordinate volunteer services and other Red Cross health, recreation, and safety programs, Mr. Rae said. College graduates with training in social welfare or related work are preferred, he said.

Field directors at military installations work with local chapters of the Red Cross in providing services for dependents.

"They should be in good health and free to travel anywhere," Mr. Rae said. They are eligible for assignments at overseas installations after successful domestic experience."

Women who are college graduates are needed to work in military hospitals. This job requires training or experience in recreation, physical education, the arts and social sciences.

The work includes developing group games and parties, visiting patients and planning activities for them and assisting in the training of Red Cross volunteers.

The Red Cross mobile recreation program for American troops in Korea and South Vietnam also needs women who are college graduates, Mr. Rae noted. These workers would be assigned with other Red Cross workers to a military command.

Teams of workers visit each unit of the command to lead hour-long programs in which servicemen participate in quizzes, stunts, games, discussions, amateur dramatics and singing groups. The tour of overseas duty is 12 months.

Service to the armed forces is the largest of all Red Cross activities, Mr. Rae said. Interested graduating seniors may receive information and guidance about the Red Cross from the University placement office, 516 Administration Bldg.

Realm Of Professors

Harvey D. Miner, assistant professor of industrial arts, is the author of an article appearing in the December 1965 issue of "Journal of Industrial Arts Education." The article is entitled "Industrial Arts In Nigeria."

Dr. Otto F. Bauer, assistant professor of speech, read a paper to the General Semantics Interest Group of the Speech Association of America at a convention held from Dec. 27 through 30 in New York. The paper was entitled "a Phenomenological Approach to Grading."

Dr. Laura E. Kratz, associate professor of health and physical education, was elected to the executive board of the Women's National Aquatic Forum on Dec. 30, at the national meeting of the Forum in Florida.

Members meet annually to discuss and demonstrate new methods and procedures in aquatics.

Dr. John R. Coash, director of research, will be a member of a panel to evaluate proposals for In-Service Institutes for Elementary School Teachers and Supervisors of Science and Mathematics for 1966 and 1967. This is sponsored by the National Science Foundation Jan. 20 through 22 in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Raymond W. Derr, professor of journalism, has been re-appointed to a two-year term on the Educational Advisory Council of the Public Relations Society of America.

The council works closely with schools of journalism and other educational agencies in setting up standards and planning programs of training for students interested in public relations careers.

Dr. Derr will be one of nine such educators in the United States to comprise the committee.

In conjunction with two new courses to be offered by the marketing department in Sept., 1966, Dr. William R. Haskins, associate professor of marketing, attended the annual Allied Social Sciences meeting at the New York Hilton on Dec. 27 through 29.

World News Roundup

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)--Violence erupted again in downtown Santo Domingo yesterday.

One youth was killed and another seriously wounded when police and Army soldiers fired into a rock-throwing mob in front of a high school.

The shooting dispersed the crowd, which was trying to block a major thoroughfare.

The outbreak came in the same vicinity where most of Monday's strike agitation was centered. In the downtown areas, agitators again upset trash cans and set tires afire. The rioters also attacked the cars of newsmen with rocks.

NEW DELHI (AP)--Representatives of governments around the world including Vice President Humphrey and Secretary of State Rusk are in India to attend today's funeral for Prime Minister Shastri.

His body arrived in New Delhi yesterday from Russia, where he died.

WASHINGTON (AP)--A Congressman says the U.S. sent a direct communication to North Vietnam shortly after the U.S. halted bombing of the North on Christmas Eve.

There had been word earlier of a direct contact. Democratic Congressman Cornelius Gallagher of New Jersey said it went out just after the bombing lull started.

Gallagher is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee which met yesterday with Under Secretary of State George Ball. But Ball would not comment to newsmen on the meeting.

However, Gallagher said that the significance is that this contact with Hanoi was accepted, whereas previously Hanoi rejected one from the U.S.

Designer To Visit

Joel P. Myers, one of the few men in the country involved in the designing of free blown glass, will visit the University in an academic capacity, on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 21 and 22.

Mr. Myers, who is Director of Design for the Blenko Glass Co. of Milton, Va., will head a two-day workshop for students.

His visit is being sponsored by the Humanities Council of the College of Liberal Arts.

Mr. Myers received his Bachelor of Fine Arts in ceramic design from the State University of New York at Alfred in 1963. His studies began at Parsons School of Design in 1951, and upon graduation, he worked for four years as a professional package designer in New York City until he was attracted by the ceramic design of Europe.

He returned to the U.S. two years later, and worked for two years before enrolling at Alfred. Since his graduation Myers has been employed by Blenko. His works have been exhibited from coast to coast.

Some of Mr. Myers' designs and productions will be on display in the Fine Arts Building during his visit to the campus.

'Lima Story' Topic For Press Club Meeting Tonight

"The Lima Story" will be told at the Press Club meeting tonight at 7 a.m. in the Pink Dogwood Room.

Robert C. Barton, editor of the Elyria Chronicle-Telegram and former editor of the Lima Citizen, will tell of his experience in establishing and operating an "opposition" newspaper.

He will also explain the current status of the court battle going on between the Lima News and the Lima Star.

Anyone interested in journalism is invited to attend the meeting.

INTENT ON registering for sorority spring rush are Elaine Gibson, freshman in the College of Liberal Arts, and Sharon Golas, freshman in the College of Liberal Arts. Rush registration began and will continue until 5 p.m. today in the Dogwood Suite of the Union. Sorority rush will begin during semester break. Photo by Mike Kuhlin.

Marketing Club Keeps Busy

By JOHN DONNELLY
Staff Writer

Like many other campus organizations, the Marketing Club meets monthly in the University Union. However these meetings are not of the typical variety that many people envision when they think of a club meeting.

Today the club has invited Joseph F. Zaenkert, from Ohio Bell Telephone, to speak on the advertising campaign that launched the "Wolley Segap," or "Yellow Pages," telephone book promotion.

Each month the club hosts speakers from all phases of marketing to inform the members about recent developments in the field.

The meetings also provide members with a chance to make connections with executives that could lead to future employment opportunities.

The club is planning a trip to Chicago or Detroit to observe the business world closely. The members also plan to enter national competition in the form of Michigan State's Marketing Game.

This involves the solving of a complex marketing problem via a wire service at the Holiday Inn in Bowling Green. Schools from all over the country compete in this game every year for prizes and scholarships.

The marketing club in its present form was established on Oct. 31, 1963. Originally it had 38 members and a membership of more than 70 students.

The club attempts to cover all the aspects of marketing, which include research, product availability, sales, distribution, and advertising.

Present officers are: Jeff Bryden, president; Dan Markley, vice president; Bob Shambora, treasurer; and Karen Horton, secretary.

There are only two prerequisites for membership in marketing club: the student must be an upperclassman, and he must have a sincere interest in marketing.

'Creativity' Topic For Phi Kappa Phi

Phi Kappa Phi will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Alumni Room of the Union. Dr. Alfred B. Garret, vice president for research at Ohio State University will be the guest speaker.

Theme of his speech will be his latest book, "Creativity and the Flash of Genius."

Dr. Garret is the author of 8 books and laboratory manuals, and has also published numerous articles in professional magazines. He received the Honored Teacher Award from the College of Arts and Sciences at OSU in 1958.

Professor Garret earned his doctor's degree in 1932 at OSU. He was awarded an honorary doctor in Science Degree by Muskingum College in 1960 and by Ohio Wesleyan University in 1962.

Dr. Garret has been a professor at OSU for more than 30 years. He was chairman of the department of chemistry from 1960 to 1962, when he became Vice President for Research.

Fellowships Open For Next Year

Teaching fellowships are available in the departments of art, education, English and psychology for graduate students who hold a master's degree and who will be working toward a degree of master of fine arts, specialist in education, or doctor of philosophy in English or psychology.

Fellowships range from $1,500 to $4,500 for two semesters, according to the teaching service assigned.

Applications for fellowships should be filed by March 1. For additional information contact Dr. Lloyd A. Helms, dean of the Graduate School.

Cadet Completes Air Force FIP

Cadet Lt. Col. James Woolace this week became the first cadet to complete the Air Force Flight Instruction Program (FIP) in 1966.

The University Air Force ROTC is training senior cadets interested in becoming Air Force pilots. By completing FIP, the cadets also receive their private pilot licenses.

Training consists of 20 hours of dual instruction and 16 1/2 hours of solo time at the University Airport. The program also includes ground school instruction in meteorology, navigation, federal air regulations, radio navigation, flight computer, flight safety and aerodynamics.

Through FIP the cadets require a "thorough knowledge of the theory of flight," Major Louis I. Lawrence, assistant professor of aerospace studies, said yesterday.

The program also serves as a test of aptitudes and interest in flying.

Major Lawrence also said that FIP has resulted in "marked and improvement" in the quality of Air Force pilot trainees and has also improved flying safety records.

Former Governor DiSalle To Seek Nomination Again?

COLUMBUS (AP) -- FORMER Governor Michael V. DiSalle may seek the Democratic nomination for governor but has not made his plans known. As a result Ohio Democratic Party leaders can do little more than mark time until he does. A Democratic screening committee met in Columbus a few days ago to consider possibilities for the party's 1966 election slate.

DiSalle, didn't appear at the meeting. He knows that until he speaks, which he says he will do later this month, no final course will be set and no "number one" candidate can be chosen around which the slate will be formed.

Members of the Democratic screening committee would find it awkward to make recommendations to the party's executive committee until then.

State Senator Frazier Reams Jr., of Toledo has taken issue with reports that he is being proposed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in a move to block former Governor DiSalle from running.

The 36-year-old second term senator said, "I don't think it is a stop-anyone move. I look at it as a pro-Reams move."

State Senator Charles Carney of Youngstown, who for some years has been identified with the anti-DiSalle faction of the party, proposed Reams for the nomination Friday after State Senate Democratic leader Frank King and House Minority Leader

A.G. Lancione took themselves out of contention.

Earlier in the week, Congress-at-Large Robert E. Sweeney of Cleveland took himself out of the race by announcing he would seek the party's nomination for Attorney General.

King and Sweeney had been most mentioned as likely candidates to oppose Governor Rhodes' bid for re-election in November.

Their withdrawal was seen as putting DiSalle into an almost shoo-in position if he wants to try a political comeback. The former Governor says he will not disclose his plans until late this month.

When Reams met Thursday with the party's screening com-

Therapy Society To Install Officers

Sigma Alpha Eta, speech and hearing therapy honorary society, will install newly elected officers at its meeting Monday in the River Room.

The new officers are Evelyn Pine, president; Joan Walker, vice president; Pat Taylor, secretary; Judy Churchin, treasurer, and Sandra Krejcar and Beth Barton, publicity chairmen.

A social hour will follow the installation. A special invitation is extended to graduating seniors.

mittee here, it was as an avowed candidate for the Lieutenant Governor nomination.

But he admitted he told the committee, "I would be available for Governor if all these other fellows are dropping out."

Reams said he would decide, "probably by the end of this week," whether he will file for Governor or Lieutenant Governor.

Seemingly undismayed by the maneuvering is State Rep. Harry H. McIlwain, who, with the withdrawal of Lancione, is the only officially announced candidate in the race.

McIlwain believes his primary opponent will be 33-year-old Cleveland City Council President James V. Stanton.

Stanton says he is not a candidate, but he had said earlier he would accept a "draft".

Charlie Hams It Up

'Resident' Ousted

By ROSEMARY KOVACS
Staff Writer

Now it can be revealed. A male lived in a women's dormitory for over three months without exposure. But wait. Housing officials needn't go scampering to telephones demanding the culprit and accomplices.

The male was only Charlie, a happy hamster who abided in the wastebasket of a McDonald Quadrangle resident since October. However, the names of Charlie's keepers must remain anonymous to protect the guilty.

Charlie's owner knew she was guilty of illegal possession, of a pet, but what could she do when her guy said, "I want you to keep Charlie to remember me by."

So, Charlie, the camel-colored fur piece, moved into dormitory life and soon became one of the most sought-after personalities on the floor.

He got along fine with his roommates and trained their friends to remember to throw only bits of popcorn, pumpkin seeds and other delicacies into his room at the bottom of the wastebasket.

Charlie even had his own special girl, Toppo Gigo, an alluring brown and white hamster from a neighboring room.

But alas, Charlie's girl was expelled. One day she went with her keeper to the pay phone, crawled into the coin slot, and refused to come out.

It wasn't so bad when the telephone repairman had to take the phone apart to rescue her. It was only when he found she had chewed up wires inside the phone that it was go-go Toppo Gigo.

Now Charlie also is quite a few miles away from BGSU.

Do you suppose Charlie's roommates sent him away because they too were afraid of getting caught with the goods?

Perhaps not. Charlie has been replaced by two goldfish.

A HAMSTER by the name of Charlie was the only male resident in McDonald Quadrangle for some time during the early part of this semester. Charlie lived in a wastebasket in his owner's room for three months before he was sent to different surroundings. For obvious reasons, the owner's name cannot be revealed.

Harshman Language Unit— A Taste Of Life Abroad

By CAROLE MILLER
Staff Writer

"It is another way to keep the language majors in the atmosphere of the foreign country," said Dr. Michael J. Flys, associate professor and chairman of Romance Languages, about the language floor in Harshman Unit D.

The idea of the language floor is a new program started this semester in order to aid the foreign language majors and minors.

It is located on the first floor of Harshman D. There are two wings, one Spanish and the other French, each housing about 25 students. Included on each wing are several native students who help the others with language problems they might have.

These students take part in many activities which aid their understanding of the language.

Monday through Thursday, language tables are reserved for these students during the dinner hour. Either a faculty member or a native speaker of the language is spoken exclusively.

The language tables are designed to make the students more at ease in speaking the language.

"The students are encouraged to speak the language in the dormitory and some do," said Dr. Flys.

Mary E. Harlan, a junior in the College of Education who lives in the Spanish wing, said that the program would be more successful if there were certain hours of the day when it is mandatory to speak the language. She said that without an element of force such as the agreement to speak the language exclusively which is signed when a student goes abroad, the students do not use the language enough.

Miss Harlan said she believed that the program would also be more successful if more students were included. "There are quite a few students who speak the language who do not live on the floor," she explained.

During the week, there are daily broadcasts of the news given in the foreign language over the intercom system. There are also presentations of literary readings, cultural material and music programs over the intercom system.

The lounges on the floors are furnished with tape recorders, records, books, and magazines in the language. There is also a French and a Spanish game of "Scrabble" available.

Ruth Anne Schrickel, a junior in the College of Liberal Arts, who also lives on the Spanish wing, stated that she could see many advantages to this program.

"The girls on the floor share the same academic interests," she said.

Miss Schrickel said that she thought it especially helped those students who will be going abroad later. They are exposed to this atmosphere while here, and therefore can learn more when they go abroad.

On the whole, the spirit of the students in both language wings is high. The over-all opinion is that this new program is very helpful and should be continued.

Since about 10 students are going abroad next semester from these wings, vacancies will be made and other students may move in. Students should be in their second year of study in the language before moving to these wings, said Dr. Flys.

ROMAN IN THE GLOAMIN'

Now as the end of the first semester draws near, one fact emerges clearly: you are all going to flunk out of school.

There are two things you can do about it. First, you can marry money. (I don't mean you marry the money itself; I mean you marry a person who has money. Weddings between people and currency have not been legal anywhere in the United States since the Smoot-Hawley Act. Personna® Stainless Steel Blades, on the other hand, are legal everywhere and are, indeed, used with great pleasure and satisfaction in all fifty states of the Union and Duluth. I bring up Personna Stainless Steel Blades because this column is sponsored by the makers of Personna Stainless Steel Blades, and they are inclined to get edgy if I omit to mention their product. Some of them get edgy and some get double-edgy because Personna Blades come both in Injector style and Double Edge style.)

But I digress. I was saying you can marry money but, of course, you will not because you are a high-minded, clean-living, pure-hearted, freckle-faced American kid. Therefore, to keep from flunking, you must try the second method: you must learn how to take lecture notes.

According to a recent survey, eleven out of ten American undergraduates do not know the proper way to take lecture notes. To illustrate this appalling statistic, let us suppose you are taking a course in history. Let us further suppose the lecturer is lecturing on the ruling houses of England. You listen intently. You write diligently in your notebook, making a topic outline as you have been taught. Like this:

- I. House of Plantagenet.
- II. House of Lancaster.
- III. House of York.

Then you stop. You put aside your pen. You blink back a tear, for you cannot go on. Oh, yes, you know very well that the next ruling house is the House of Tudor. The trouble is you don't know the Roman numeral that comes after III.

It may, incidentally, be of some comfort to learn that you are not the only people who don't know Roman numerals. The fact is, the Romans never knew them either. Oh, I suppose they could tell you how much V or X were or like that, but when it came to real zingers like LXI or MMC, they just flung away their styluses and went downtown to have a bath or take in a circus or maybe stab Caesar a few times.

You may wonder why Rome stuck with these ridiculous numerals when the Arabs had such a nice, simple system. Well, sir, the fact is that Emperor Vespasian tried like crazy to buy the Arabic numerals from Suleiman The Magnificent, but Suleiman wouldn't do business—not even when Vespasian raised his bid to 100,000 gold piastres, plus he offered to throw in the Colosseum, the Appian Way, and Technicolor.

So Rome stuck with Roman numerals—to its sorrow, as it turned out. One day in the Forum, Cicero and Pliny got to arguing about how much is CDL times MVIX. Well, sir, pretty soon everyone in town came around to join the hassle. In all the excitement, nobody remembered to lock the north gate and—wham! before you could say ars longa—in rushed the Goths, the Visigoths, and the Green Bay Packers!

Well, sir, that's the way the empire crumbles, and I digress. Let's get back to lecture notes. Let's also say a word about Burma Shave®. Why? Because Burma Shave is made by the makers of Personna Blades who, it will be recalled, are the sponsors of this column. They are also the sponsors of the ultimate in shaving luxury. First coat your kisser with Burma Shave, regular or menthol—or, if you are the devil-may-care sort, some of each. Then whisk off your stubble with an incredibly sharp, unbelievably durable Personna Blade, Injector or Double Edge—remembering first to put the blade in a razor. The result: facial felicity, cutaneous cheer, epidermal elysium. Whether you shave every day, every III days, or every VII, you'll always find Personna and Burma Shave a winning combination.

Personnam amo, Tom Personnam amat, Dick Personnam amat, Harry Personnam amat, quique Personnam amat—et quoque amabitis.

Rodeheffer Preps For Varsity Role Redskins' Snow Is Choice

By TOM HINE
Sports Writer

Next year's varsity basketball team figures to be up to its eyes in talent, with the presence of Al Dixon, Walt Piatkowski, Sam Mims, Rich Hendrix, and Dan Rinicella (just to mention a few) all returning to bolster the Falcon lineup.

But the betting man perhaps would be wise to put a few dollars down that a boy who isn't even on the BG roster will be starting for the 1966-67 Falcons. The newcomer? He's Sid Rodeheffer, a 6'2" guard on the freshman team.

Although he's the first to admit that breaking into a lineup like the one above might pose some problems, Sid is confident he'll make the grade.

"I've always felt that if I don't play, the guy in front of me is going to an All-American," is his way of putting it.

Being ready physically and mentally is the key, according to Sid. "I believe in conditioning, and being able to do everything on the court--shoot, pass, rebound, dribble--everything."

A local youth, Sid played basketball at Bowling Green High School, where he earned recognition as a member of the All-Ohio Class AA second team in his senior year, and was a unanimous All-County choice in both his junior and senior years.

Despite the fact he had basketball scholarship offers from several colleges, the decision of which school to attend wasn't hard to make.

"I always wanted to play for Bowling Green, since I grew up here," he said. "I knew I'd get a good education, and when I got out, I'd have something besides just the experience of playing basketball."

Contrasting the brand of basketball played on both the high school and college levels, Sid cites an overall improvement in competition as the main difference in the two.

"College ball is rougher, too," he says, adding that "I'm not overaggressive, but if someone wants to get rough, I sure won't back away."

The frosh team as a unit, not doing exceptionally well at the moment, will improve by the end of the season, promises Sid.

"We've got a good coach (Robert Conibear) and we've already learned a lot," he explained. By the end of the year we'll be a better ball club."

Redskins' Snow Is Choice

COLUMBUS (AP)--Little Phil Snow, Miami's peppercorn guard, was a unanimous choice yesterday as the Mid-American Conference's player of the week.

Bowling Green's, 6-0 Rich Hendrix, who snatched 15 rebounds and scored 20 points Saturday at Western Michigan was also nominated for star of the week honors.

A committee of five sports writer and sportscasters chose Snow for his outstanding play against Kent State and Toledo, last week.

The 5-8 Snow, only a sophomore, hit 24 points against Kent and the 24 in Miami's romp over Toledo last Saturday in the Mid-Am TV game of the day.

Snow has been in the double features in all but one game this year and is averaging 16 points per game in 10 starts.

Other players nominated for star of the week honors were Doug Sims of Kent, George Stone of Marshall, Ken Fowlkes of Ohio University, Bob Aston of Toledo, and Reggie Lacefield of Western Michigan.

Brown Hopeful For Franchise

CLEVELAND (AP) -- Former coach of the Cleveland Browns Paul Brown said yesterday he is "very encouraged by what's happening" in Cincinnati.

Brown stopped here overnight on his way back to the West Coast. He referred to his bid for a National Football League franchise for Cincinnati.

"On the basis of wealth and population to draw from, the Cincinnati territory is far ahead of others seeking a franchise, and I'm having difficulty keeping myself from becoming too optimistic," Brown said.

He also said he is pleased by the enthusiasm of Governor Rhodes for the Cincinnati franchise.

Brown said he is interested in Cincinnati because he would exercise ownership control, and added:

"I have no interest in going back just to a coaching and general manager setup. I have no desire to get into the game of musical chairs the coaches have been playing."

Doug Robinson, now with the Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League, recalls a letter he received while with the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. The letter read: "Dear Doug: You're the greatest. Please send me a picture of Rod Gilbert."

Alabama Coach Defends Brains

TUSCALOOSA, ALA., (AP)--Alabama football coach Paul Bryant has expressed surprise that a complaint has been raised because some of his players have academic scholarships.

Schools in the Southeast Conference are limited to 40 football scholarships a year. But one of the conference schools has complained that three of the players on the 1965 Alabama freshman team were in school on academic scholarships and that the Crimson Tide is using that as a subterfuge to have additional scholarships.

Replied Bryant:

"I never thought anyone would be jumping on us because we've got smart football players."

Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore thought the reports are exaggerated but said an investigation will be made.

Duke 1st In Poll

Duke is still the number one basketball team in the latest Associated Press basketball poll, but second-place Kentucky has moved closer to the Blue Devils in the tabulations.

Duke has a total of 405 points to Kentucky's 365. Vanderbilt is third, followed by St. Joseph's, Bradley, Providence, Brigham Young, Texas Western, UCLA and Kansas.

College graduates, new to Ford Motor Company, often comment on the comparative youth of many of our top executives. The example of these men in key positions is evidence that being young is no handicap at Ford to those who possess ability and ambition. In fact, new employees can expect challenging assignments while still participating in our College Graduate Program. This means an opportunity to demonstrate special skills and initiative while still learning the practical, day-to-day aspects of the business. Consider the experience of Jim Weston, who has been with Ford Motor Company for three years.

Jim came to Ford in February, 1963. His first assignment was in marketing analysis where his principal job was evaluating present and potential dealer locations. For a time, he also gained experience in the actual purchasing of dealer locations. Later, an assignment forecasting sales and market potential with Ford Division's Truck Sales Programming Department gave him the background he needed to qualify for his present position. His job today? Only three years out of college, Jim is now a senior financial analyst in Ford Division's Business Management Department.

Jim Weston's experience is not unusual. At Ford Motor Company, your twenties can be challenging and rewarding years. Like to learn more about it? Talk to our representative when he visits your campus.

BG Surprises Kent 86-83

By JACK HARTMAN
Sports Editor

KENT--The Falcons have finally found a winning system.

In the first half you play it about even and finish at intermission a couple of points behind. In the second half you tighten your defense, come on like a house of fire, and get a good sized lead. In the waning moments you lose that lead as the other team goes into a full-court press, but hold on at the end to win.

It's a painful way of doing things, but at Bowling Green where victories have been scarce, it's a welcome change.

The Falcons did it at Western Michigan Saturday and again last night at Kent, 86-83.

BG trailed 40-34 at halftime but came back on the sharp-shooting of Nick Aloï and opened up leads of as much as 11 points in the second half to win.

In-again out-again Aloï hit 6 of 11 field goals, 9 of 9 free throws for 21 points to lead BG. Also adding to the Falcon cause were Walt Piatkowski and Rich Hendrix with 15 each, Al Dixon 13, and Bob Van Poppel 9.

Dixon was strong under the boards with 21 rebounds while Piatkowski pulled down 14 retrieves.

The Falcons jumped off to an early 22-17 lead but soon found themselves trailing 32-25, with

Hawks' Star Hurt

CHICAGO (AP)-- The First place Chicago Black Hawks' chances of winning the National Hockey League championship for the first time have been dealt a severe jolt.

For the next five or six weeks, the Hawks will have to play without all-star defenseman Pierre Pilote.

six minutes left in the half.

BG still suffered from excessive turnovers--15--to 10 for Kent, but improved on their 24 at Western Michigan.

Kent hit 45% from the field on 30 of 66 shots, Bowling Green struck for 29 of 73 attempts, a 40 % average. It was in the free-throw department that the game was decided.

Kent hit 23 of 32 free throws to the Falcons' 28 of 37 performance. Thus, while making one more field goal, the Flashes fell behind by five charity tosses.

Kent was hurt when two starters, Ted Sims and Fred

Albrecht fouled out in the second half.

Bowling Green's two guards, Aloï and Hendrix played a big part in the win. Aloï shot well and came off the bench while the Solid Silent Man (Hendrix) played almost the entire game and steadied the team in the hectic stages.

Koufax Top Athlete

NEW YORK (AP) -- The ace southpaw of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Sandy Koufax, has been named male athlete of the year for 1965 in a poll taken by the Associated Press.

Koufax was the number one choice of 224 in the balloting by 303 sports writers and sport-casters.

He received a total of 778 points to outdistance easily his closest rival, basketball star Bill Bradley, who played at Princeton. Golfer Gary Player was third; football player Jimmy Brown was fourth. Another gridiron star, Gale Sayers, was fifth.

Willie Mays of baseball was sixth; track star Randy Matson was seventh; Mike Garrett of football was eighth; heavyweight champion Cassius Clay was ninth and runner Michel Jazy was tenth.

Koufax had a big season in 1965. He struck out 348 batters for a one-season major league mark; won 26 games, including his fourth no-hitter--this one was a perfect game--and also beat the Minnesota Twins twice in the world series, including the seventh and deciding game.

Koufax is 3 years old. He won the male athlete award in 1963. Only tennis player Don Budge and golfer Byron Nelson were two-time winners.

Sports Notes

CLEVELAND (AP) -- The Cleveland Plain Dealer yesterday challenged the claim of a Miami newspaper that Miami is the hottest football city in the nation.

The Miami News claimed that title after the Orange Bowl drew an average of 69,138 fans in four games over the past eight weeks.

The Plain Dealer noted the Cleveland Browns played before an average of 82,469 for seven home games, and even the Browns can't claim the record.

In five home games, Ohio State University crowds averaged 83,246 per game, and the bucks have packed them in at OSU stadium year after year.

NEW YORK (AP) -- The New York Rangers' slim hopes of qualifying for a berth in the Stanley Cup Playoffs dropped yesterday when they announced that Rod Gilbert will be sidelined for the rest of the National Hockey League season.

He will enter a hospital soon and undergo spinal surgery.

PHILADELPHI (AP) -- The Philadelphia Phils yesterday picked their former infielder, Bobby Morgan, to manage their farm club at Portsmouth, Virginia, in the Carolinas League. He managed the Phils' Florida State Team at Miami for the past two seasons.

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The National Collegiate Athletic Association has announced the sites for the first round games of its post-season basketball tournament. All are scheduled for March seventh or eighth.

The Mid-East openers will be played at Kent State, the Mid-West openers at Wichita, and the far west at the University of San Francisco.

The eastern regional opening round games will be divided between Philadelphia's palestra and one other site, to be determined. In former years the eastern regionals opened with a tripleheader in Philadelphia.

NEW YORK (AP)--With today's run-and-shoot tactics popular in pro basketball and with each team usually scoring more than 100 points, it's hard to imagine that in 1950 two National Basketball Association teams scored only a total of 37 points.

But it did happen.

In that game the Fort Wayne Pistons edged the Minneapolis Lakers, 19-18.

BG Frosh Fall Again

KENT-- Bowling Green's freshman basketball team dropped their third straight Mid-American Conference decision here last night, falling to the Kent yearlings 75-61.

The junior Flashes started out strong, building a 35-15 lead in the first half. Bowling Green whittled away at the gap with nine straight points, however, and by halftime had reduced Kent's margin to 35-24.

The frosh Falcons went on a tear in the second half, cutting the Kent lead to 48-43, only to fall way behind once again. With the exception of a brief comeback that cut the lead to seven points, the Golden Flashes frosh controlled the second half action the rest of the way.

Top point man for the night for both teams was Kent's highly touted 6-5 center from Lorain Admiral King, Doug Grayson. Grayson pumped in 29 points and also did an outstanding job on the boards.

High for the Falcons was guard Richard Rudgers who tallied 28 points. No other frosh players tallied in double figures for BG though Mark Hoffman and Sid Rodeheffer each had nine markers, while center Rick Macauley added eight more.

The next freshman game will be Saturday night at 6 p.m. as a preliminary to the varsity contest with Miami.
